MADISON SCHOOL

The Madison school teachers are indebted to their mutual training teacher, S. C. Cash and family for a most delightful ride and picnic Wednesday evening.

The domestic science teacher, Miss Rhythe, kindly consented to pilot the party to the Papago Park road, from which point they finally found their way to the Hole in the Rock.

Scrambling to the top of the hill, preparing coffee and other eatables, snapping the kodaks and listening to the primary teacher making explanations for a recent surprise, were among the interesting features of the evening. The jolly crowd consisted of: Mr. C. C. Cash, Mrs. C. C. Cash, Miss Inez Cash, Miss Beth Cash, Miss Annie Cash, Mrs. Ella Page Seward, Miss Myrtle Rhythe, Miss Lenore Rhythe, Miss Lucy Cummings.

NO LIQUOR FOR MEXICANS

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]

SANTA ANA, Cal., March 17.—Liquor establishments at Newport Beach and Anaheim, the only two towns in Orange county where the sale of intoxicating liquor is licensed, were ordered not to sell liquor to Mexicans today by Sheriff C. E. Jackson. The sale of firearms to Mexicans also was prohibited by the Sheriff.

The city council of Santa Ana ordered rifles purchased today for the men under Marshal Samuel Jernagin. The marshal has instructed his men to take no chances with suspicious Mexicans, but to shoot if they exhibited hostility.

The action of the officials was taken as a precautionary measure, it was stated. There has been no trouble with Mexicans thus far as a result of the American punitive expedition into Mexico.

TARVIA ON WEST WASHINGTON ST.

City Commission Awards Contract for Paving Thoroughfare to State Capitol to California-Arizona Asphalt Construction Co.

With the way cleared for the paving of West Washington street, by the refusal of Judge Frank H. Lyon to make permanent an injunction restraining the city from assessing the cost of intersections against an entire paving district, the city commission, meeting yesterday afternoon in a recess session, awarded the contract for the paving of Washington street from Seventh avenue to Seventeenth avenue, and Seventeenth avenue from Jefferson street to Adams street, to the California-Arizona Asphalt Construction company. Tarvia asphalt macadam was selected, the bid of the successful concern being $124 per square yard.

This is the second award of a contract calling for the use of the Tarvia asphalt macadam, the first being for the paving of South Central avenue from Harrison street to Yavapai street. The California-Arizona company was successful in the first instance, bidding $124 at that time, as well as for the West Washington street work.

The meeting of yesterday was perhaps one of the most interesting the commission has held in some time. It brought out opposition from advocates of other classes of paving, particularly Bitulith. Commissioner MacBean told of a conversation he had with Superintendent Mitchell of the Phoenix Railway company, in which the street railway man said he had been told that if he did not remove his name from the Tarvia petition the city commission would repeal the "jittery" ordinance. MacBean assured him that as far as he was concerned he need fear no such thing, as he (MacBean) was going to vote for Tarvia, as that seemed to be the paving the majority of the property owners wanted.

Commissioner Richey said he was for Tarvia because there seemed to be no such difficulties attending the use of that class of paving as with others where royalties and license agreements figured.

With the award of the contract for the paving of West Washington street a matter that has been held up for nearly two years, Phoenix is assured of a handsome boulevard to the state capital. Not only will the street be paved, cement gutters installed and curbing constructed, but the work of installing ornamental electric lighting standards will be carried on at the same time. When all the work planned is completed it will be the longest street of paving in the city and with the new lights will enhance the beauty of that section of the city.

The city engineer presented plans and grades for the paving of the unpaved portion of North Central avenue from Roosevelt street to the McDowell road and these were adopted. A resolution of intention to pave this portion of the avenue will be presented, probably at the next meeting.

SEEK MOUNTS FOR CAVALRYMEN HERE

Cavalry and light artillery mounts will be sought by the United States army representatives, who will visit this valley beginning Monday, according to an announcement yesterday. Captain Lear, U. S. A. will arrive in Phoenix Monday, to spend several days passing on horses, offered for sale by valley breeders.

While in the city, Captain Lear will make his headquarters at the Higley Horse and Saddle company's corral at Fifth Point, sometimes known as Lamberts, after J. R. Lambert the manager, who is fitted by his knowledge of local horse-breeding conditions to assist greatly in collecting stock.

SHRINE BALL CLIMAX OF THE FESTIVITIES

The Shriners' festivities reached a climax last evening when El Zaribah Temple entertained with its annual ball. The event, which took place at the Woman's Club, was the most brilliant and picturesque function of the spring. The combination of rare and beautiful blossoms, emblems of the order, suggestions of the St. Patrick season, together with handsome gowns and glittering jewels, made a picture long to be remembered by the hundred or more guests.

The walls were festooned with garlands of greens, white banyans on the mantels were pepper boughs and cut flowers. On the stage stood baskets of ferns and here and there a great cluster of delicate blossoms. In the reception hall deep-toned violet sweet peas predominated among the wealth of blossoms.

The charming young girls who served punch wore the tiny green apron and cap in honor of the patron saint of Ireland, adding to the general gay effect.

The music was furnished by the Besse orchestra. The grand march was led by High Priest and Prophet Arthur Gibbons Hulett and Mrs. George A. Mintz, wife of the illustrious potentate.

Mrs. Mintz, Mrs. W. B. Twitchell, Mrs. Clay F. Leonard, Arthur Gibbons Hulett, A. O. Erhardt and Charles A. Stauffer served on the ball committee. On the reception committee were Past Potentate Shirley Christy, C. W. Hartman, W. C.

AVIATORS ARE INJURED

Hydroaeroplane Catches Fire in Air During Flight

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 17.—An Smith an aviator, and his mechanic, Robert Blair, were painfully burned and badly bruised late today when a hydroaeroplane in which they were making a test flight caught fire in the air, forcing them to make a hasty landing in a field instead of aslough, near here, where they were making their experiments.

Smith was knocked unconscious and Blair was shaken up. Both men were removed to a local hospital. They will recover.

The fuselage of the machine caught fire from a flareback when the hydroaeroplane was soaring at a height of about 100 feet.

Officers of The Netherlands government, for which the big seaplane had been constructed by Glenn Martin, were watching the flight when the accident happened.

charges whatever again any person or party, but stated the belief of a merchant of this city to the effect that a "free and independent democratic American citizen stood no show whatever for office in Maricopa county." To this I added, "I found on inquiry that others have the same opinion."

To my communication the Republican made editorial reply. In this reply it attempted to distinguish between a political "ring" and a political "machine" and you treated the political "ring" as a very harmless institution, which was doubted and the editorial is concluded with the positive statement "for the political machine may thrive mightily here and does thrive." The editorial also states "there is no lubrication for a machine in the county government."

I must confess that attempted distinction between political "ring" and political "machine" is to my mind rather "far fetched," and I cannot agree that the term "political ring" is an absolute form of speech. The
